

Project & Program Management Services

Proven professionals deliver pre-construction and life-cycle consulting services

DCC's Project & Program Management team is composed of professionals in the best sense of the word. We believe in the importance of delivering project management services that are consistent with the industry's leading standards. And we encourage our PPM team members to achieve the Project Management Professional and Gold Seal certifications—marks of excellence for project management and construction industry personnel.

Providing considered advice

The Project & Program Management (PPM) service line advises Department of National Defence (DND) professionals at all project stages. From problem identification and analysis, through planning, design and construction, PPM's team recommends resource management approaches, project objectives and strategies, and schedule and performance metrics.

Integrated strength

The PPM service line takes advantage of each team member's specialized knowledge in the fields of federal and private sector contracting and project management processes. Regional service line leaders promote PPM quality standards globally, while local practice area leaders deliver specialized support to individual projects.

PPM professionals work closely with teams from DCC's other service lines to ensure clients receive the most comprehensive services in an integrated package.

From pre-construction to implementation, it's all here

The PPM team supports DND's objectives in two principal areas: project support and program support.

- PPM's project support services facilitate pre-construction operations. Members of the PPM team work alongside DND project managers, advising on project objectives, drafting statements of work, ensuring contractor performance and managing project documentation such as schedules, budgets, procurement plans, design and implementation.
- Through its program support functions, the PPM team offers strategic planning that considers a project's entire lifespan. With a multi-year horizon in mind, the PPM team works with DND professionals and external consultants to deliver services such as project initiation, identification and development.
